Dear Valued Baxter Customer:

To keep you informed about supply improvements, we are providing you with an update related to our I.V. solutions, nutrition and premixed medication portfolio.

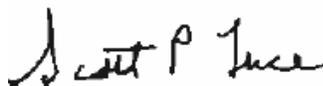

We have made significant progress on product supply for many of the critical products you need for your patients such as Large Volume Parenterals (LVPs), Small Volume Parenterals (SVPs), and MINI-BAG Plus products. While our LVP allocation levels have remained at 100%, our amino acid and Clinimix products have now been raised to the same level. For the SVP and MINI-BAG Plus products, we recently increased product allocation levels to 110%. We have placed products back into the distribution vendor channel and foresee additional products returning soon.

Our manufacturing operations in Puerto Rico, where we produce MINI-BAG and MINI-BAG Plus products, as well as amino acids and certain premixed medication products have resumed normal operations. And these facilities are supported by back-up diesel generation to support operations in the event of an electric power outage. As previously communicated, we are also bringing in additional LVP units to the U.S. market through permanent approval from the FDA for products produced in one of our manufacturing plants in Mexico. Additionally, Baxter continues to work with the FDA to maintain temporary special importation of certain products and to explore how we will leverage our global manufacturing footprint to have additional supply flexibility to support our customers going forward.

To stay up to date on our progress, we encourage you to visit our website, www.baxterivsolutions.com, which has been enhanced to provide easy access to current information specific to Baxter's I.V. solutions. As always, your local Baxter sales representative is available to provide direction and answers to any questions or concerns you may have.

We thank you for your patience during these recent challenges. We acknowledge the difficulties you have faced and are resolute in our commitment to continue to improve and support your needs to ensure patient care. As a leading manufacturer of I.V. solutions, Baxter remains dedicated to our mission to save and sustain lives by ensuring patients have access to the products and therapies they need.

Sincerely,

Scott P. Luce
